Big Trash Pickup - End of the Year

Planning one last big trash pickup before the year ends? Be sure to plan ahead! Pickups must be scheduled at least one week in advance. Requests made during the last week of December will be scheduled for January, beginning the first week of the new year.

Remember: The pickup date—not the date you submit your request—determines which year it counts toward. Any pickup that occurs after December 31 will count as one of your two pickups for the new year, even if you scheduled it in December.

Pickups can be scheduled online at cityofmoore.com/bigtrash or by email at publicworks@cityofmoore.com.

Tyler Notification System

The City of Moore uses Tyler Notify to contact customers for water, sewer, or trash service interruptions.

There is no subscription or application to download. We encourage our customers to update their contact information with our utilities department by emailing us at customerservice@cityofmoore.com or completing the form at cityofmoore.com/bill. Tyler Notify is not intended for use during an emergency due to its specific limitations.

Mayor's Minute
WITH MARK HAMM

Part 3 of 3: The Last-Mile Problem — and Putting Moore First.

Cost of the RTA was not the only problem. There is also what I call "The Last-Mile Problem."

You could ride a train to Santa Fe Station in downtown OKC and still be 5-7 miles from your job. You would need a cab, an Uber, a bus, or another ride to finish the trip. Our metro is spread out. Homes, offices, and workplaces are not packed tightly around train stations. Light rail works best in dense cities. It does not match how most people here live and work. A train could be handy for a Thunder game or an OU sporting event. Even then, the proposed Rock Creek Entertainment District in Norman — with its arena off Rock Creek Road near Interstate 35 — is not a simple walk from a downtown rail stop. A rider would still need another ride to reach the venue.

Technology is also moving fast. Self-driving vehicles and smarter traffic systems may keep cars moving better than a fixed rail line built for yesterday's map. As mayor, my job is to look after Moore first. We have roads to rebuild, water storage and delivery to strengthen, underground pipes to replace, flooding to fix, parks to improve, a public safety training center to build, and a library that needs attention. I want to partner with neighboring cities. But the Moore City Council and I must put Moore's needs first.
